KideoCall is on a mission to support expat parents who struggle to either develop their kids' Estonian language or maintain their native language in the host country.

Together with Tallinn University, KideoCall has developed a unique approach and curriculum for teaching preschoolers online.

Via video calls, specially trained coaches engage 3-10 year-olds in activities that support their language and social skills development. Online sessions bring together up to 4 kids from around the world for 1-2 hours each week.

Professional coaches have been specially trained to effectively and meaningfully work with kids online. The training program is developed together with Tartu Health Care College and can be adapted to any institution and language.

Kids love KideoCall because the activities are based on their interests and they can find friends with similar language skills and shared cultural roots. During the sessions, active games and movement are promoted.

94% of parents are amazed how engaged and happy their kids were during and after KideoCall sessions.
